

“A modern U.S. infrastructure system, including a robust pipeline network, is crucial to providing reliable energy to every community in America. API is pleased that the PIPES Act of 2023 recognizes the power of American natural gas and oil, supports the advancement of state-of-the-art technology, and embraces the development of carbon capture and hydrogen infrastructure. Our industry remains committed to working with PHMSA on our shared objective of safe pipeline operations and environmental protections, and we look forward to continued collaboration with Congress, PHMSA and other stakeholders.”

– API VP of Midstream Policy Robin Rorick